

Dr. Sampa Kundu is a Researcher at the Southeast Asia and Oceania Center, Institute for Defence Studies and Analyses, New Delhi. She works on regional affairs in Southeast Asia, regional cooperation, India-Myanmar bilateral relations, BIMSTEC, ASEAN and India's Act East Policy. She completed her PhD from JNU, New Delhi on 'India and Myanmar in BIMSTEC: Implications for Northeast India'. Few of her recent publications include "BIMSTEC at 17: An Assessment of its Potential", India Quarterly, A Sage Journal September 2014; "Buddhist versus Islamic Extremism: A Case Study of Myanmar", in Asian Strategic Review 2016, edited by S D Muni and Vivek Chadha, published by Pentagon Press and IDSA; "India's ASEAN Approach: Acting East", The Diplomat, April, 2016, to name a few. Her upcoming chapter titled "China and Southeast Asia: Tracking the Developments" will be published in China Yearbook 2015, published by IDSA and Pentagon Press.